“A contract is about interpersonal communication as much as it is about the law. No contract will work, no matter how well crafted, if the basic relationship between the parties is flawed. My job is not only to draft enforceable documents but to advise our client how to create a workable relationship so that the agreement is successful for both parties.”

Allan I. Nathan | Of Counsel

Allan is our senior corporate and transactional counsel and focuses his practice in a variety of substantive areas including mergers and acquisitions, real estate, securities law, commercial lending, investment banking, venture capital, corporate governance, strategic transactions, banking, urban planning and zoning, advertising, computer software services and internet services, licensing and permitting, and equipment manufacturing, distribution and leasing. Allan routinely handles review, drafting and negotiation of commercial contracts for our clients, and has particular expertise in the area of non-disclosure agreements. Allan's breadth of knowledge and experience is the result of thousands of complex transactions that he has handled over the course of his career.

He has served on the board of directors of a national bank.

Allan received his J.D. from Northwestern University School of Law.
